

Accept

All negatives out. Only positives in.

Accept you have not yet realised your full potential in every area as a human being.

Accept you are a sensitive person.

Accept you have an ability to make a positive impact on everyone around you.

Accept your level of awareness is growing: your awareness of who you are; your awareness of where you are going; your awareness of who you are meant to be.

Accept that there are challenges to come, but also prizes to accept, and happy times to enjoy.

Accept that there is a strong possibility, even likelihood, that sometime in the future you will smile at what you have achieved.

Accept that if you live your life true to who you are, unlimited blessings must necessarily follow.

Accept that if something excites you, it must be part of you.

Accept that in every one of us is a little boy, or a little girl, waiting to be heard.

Rod Julian